AGREEMENT FOR ACADEMIC COLLABORATION

Cooperation between Poltava National Pedagogical University, Ukraine, and University of Gdańsk, Faculty of Modern Languages, English Department

In promotion of academic cooperation between our two institutions and in light of the challenges of the internationalization of education, we would like to examine the possibilities of a closer cooperation in the areas of teaching, learning the foreign languages and literature between Poltava V. G. National Korolenko Pedagogical University and University of Gdańsk, Faculty of Modern Languages, English Department.

The aim is to support the development of the education of the two institutions by optimizing the production and circulation of knowledge and enhancing international openness and mobility. The cooperation between our two higher educational establishments should be based on quality and mutual benefit in order to prepare students and staff for the demands of strong international competencies in terms of understanding the position of their profession in an international context and in terms of understanding human rights.

Activities that could be performed and examined:

- To exchange information about seminars, conferences – with topics related to teaching, learning the foreign languages and literature in order to make the bridge between research and education
- Organization of joint conferences, seminars, and academic meetings;

- Exchange of academic and other publication;
- Application for funding from Erasmus + or other funds.

Communication planning

A coordinator should before the end of October 2016 be appointed at both institutions for planning of future contact and cooperation activities.

The agreement is continued for the period of five years.

Both parties can terminate the agreement on a six month notice.
