Formatting Guidelines

1. The paper must be no longer than 5 pages.
2. Page margins – 2 cm. Left indentation – 1.25 cm.
Please observe that indentation is to be made by using “Format – Indentation”, not by using “Tabulation.”
3. Font – unless otherwise noted, Times New Roman, 14-point, single-spaced.
4. Punctuation guidelines
 - a. There is a distinction between a hyphen (-) and a dash (–).
 - b. Quotation marks should look like this (“”).
 - c. Apostrophes should look like this (’).
 - d. Avoid using two spaces between words, line breaks, or page breaks.
 - e. Do not use tables, pictures and graphs because problems may occur when printing the materials.
5. Parts of the paper
 - a. Author’s name, affiliation, and supervisor – three lines, right justified:
 - i. The last name and the first name of the author in bold italics,
 - ii. The name of the university in italics,
 - iii. The supervisor or advisor’s last name, first name, degree, and position in bold italics.

The Linguistic Means of Expression of the Concept HAPPINESS

Words, sentences and text fragments, which are analyzed in the papers, are to be given in the italics, notions should be written in quotation marks. For example, to express the notion “hospitable” in Ukrainian there is a word “гостинний.” Concepts are written in capitals. For instance, the concept LOVE is verbalized in contemporary Ukrainian with the help of such words as любов and пристрасть. The most important fragments should be underlined.

References must be cited like this: [1, p. 3], [5, p. 4-7; 8, p. 17-21], [1; 3; 5] – where the first figure is the number of the source in the reference list and the second one the number of the page. Please observe that after the letter “p.” and before the number of the page there must be a blank space. References are obligatory.

References should be presented in alphabetical order after the headline References, e.g.:

References

1. Carrol L. Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland. Through the Looking Glass / Lewis Carrol. – London: Penguin Popular Classics, 1994. – 225 p.
2. Jenkins P. Bricks in the Wall: An Interpretation of Pink Floyd’s The Wall / Philip Jenkins // The Berlin Wall / Ernst Schürer, Manfred Keune and Philip Jenkins, eds. – New York: Peter Lang, 1996. – P. 205–213.

The article deals with structural and semantic properties of verbal deriving stems and derivational suffixes in the process of forming semantic structures of deverbal nouns and the productive models of their making in Modern English.

Key words: deriving stem, derived stem, deverbal noun, derivational suffix, derivational model, semantic structure, valency.

The paper must contain the results of personal research without logical and stylistic mistakes or typos. The author of the article and the supervisor are responsible for the content and the correctness of references.

Papers may be rejected if they:

- 1) are plagiarized,
- 2) do not present personal research results,
- 3) are translated with the help of electronic translators,
- 4) contain incorrect references, or
- 5) do not follow the formatting and submission guidelines.

Sincerely,

Dr. Maryna Zuyenko
